Missionary Skills - A Community A air

Celebrations at Divine Word College are really great. After a party, there is one more spectacle to behoweryone gets busy: clearing tables, ZDVKLQJGLVKHVVWRULQJWDEOHVDQGFKDI away the remaining food. It's pandemonium – but in 30 minutes, it's all done. Visitors stand aside to watch in amazement.

Here in the US, we live in the most prosperous nation in history, though we may be reluctant to share the blessings that God has showered on us. We might think, I gotmine through my hard work, let them get their own. We may forget that previous generations have given us a rich foundation of thinking, technology, abundant resources, and good neighbors to our north and south. Not everyone in the world starts with so many blessings!

At Divine Word College we pray, eat, study, play, and work together. Everyone shares in learning, in making a home, and in helping brothers and sisters from around the world. Good grades matter, but more important is giving and receiving life in the community and with neighbors all around.

This continuous cycle of assessment and planning helps us adapt to changes in technology, academic requirements, and user expectationately enhancing the overall library experience for our community e most comprehensive assessment we undertake is the annual library report. The following is a condensed version of this report.

Over the past two summers, our library has undergoise ites of transformative renovations aimed at optimizing spaces and enhancing accessibility for all patrons. With the help of maintenance staff and student workers, 20 bookshelves removed the mezzanine, which widened the walkways to meet ADA stands. This not only made the library more accessible but also created new lounge space on the mezzanine, providing a comfortable area for patrons to relax and study.

In addition to these changes, a new entryway wall and display were built to moderneize library's layout and facilitate discovery. To further accommodate patrons, we added a new table-height deskand a barheight desk so that patrons can either sit and stand while using the library's three computers New signage was also installed through the library to help patrons navigate more easily.

To improve our online presence and clarify information, we made several updates to the library's OPAC website. New pages were added, and the website's design was enhanced with updated HTML and CSS. We also refined explanations and definitions ofle o atee 10 (e)d3ntmprnd H

Promoting information literacy is another key goal. We created new resource guides, fo online tutorials, and websites, hosted multiple presentations, led class sessions in the library, updated orientation materials, and added 80 graded readers from Cambridge for IELI students.

We also collaborated with local organizations to increases and opportunities for the DWC community, including Dubuque County Reads, the Dubuque Area History Expo, the Dubuque County Library District, and the Dubuque Area Library Information Consortium.

Here are some brief statistics to give an overview of efforts:

- x The average cost per print book is $38 without donations and $21.82 with donations.
- x The average cost per eBook is $5.
- x The average cost per journal article is $5.
- x Total physical book circulation is 2100, with eBook circulation at around 800.
- x Combined print and eBook circulation is 2900
- x Total article downloads are approximately 5930.
- x We added 1248 books in FY 24, including 749 donations
- x We weeded 7895 book (mold, water damage, and poor condition being the primary reasons).

Trends show that print book checkouts have decreased for the fourth year in a row, with an 18% decrease between FY 23 and FY 24. However, eBookjoundal use have increased, reflecting national trends. New items circulate most frequently, and physical books in the DDC 200s Religion) have the highest circulation rate.

Looking ahead to FY 25, our goals include shifting to Patron Driven Acquisition (PDA), purchasing recently published titles, ensuring the collection reflects the diversity of our student body, supporting IELI students, weeding and replacing aging titles, supporting academic programs, spotlighting eBooks on Project Muse and JSTOR, updating the online catalog and website, acquiring new study carrels, updating call numbers to align with DDC23 standards, raising awareness about our MOU with Dubuque County Library, and reviewingerouste data for each electronic resource.
